NAC&U Seeks New Ways to Collaborate at Summer Institute 2014

In addition to welcoming a new member, the University of La Verne, to the consortium, NAC&U applauded its first group of campus ambassadors at the 2014 Summer Institute held June 25 - 27 at the University of Redlands in Redlands, CA.

University of Richmond President and NAC&U 2014 Boyer Award recipient Edward Ayers delivered the opening plenary at Summer Institute. He is pictured (l) with Valparaiso University President and NAC&U Board Chair Mark Heckler (r).

The theme was "Creating Community through Collaboration" as NAC&U unrolled its new initiative aimed at promoting optimal collaboration within the consortium. NAC&U's operational assumption that "my student is your student" is the key to its success, for it enables members to leverage their collective assets to the benefit of all students - and thus all institutions. By introducing campus ambassadors - one or two key faculty from each member campus - to the consortium, NAC&U hopes to facilitate increased collaboration between its members, for the benefit of institutions, their faculty and their students.

Call for Nominations: NAC&U Boyer Award

In 2011 NAC&U established a national award to honor the legacy of Ernest L. Boyer by recognizing an individual whose achievements in higher education exemplify Boyer's quest for connecting theory to practice and thought to action, in and out of the classroom.

If you know an individual who has made an outstanding contribution to integrating liberal arts, professional studies and civic engagement, consider nominating them for the 2015 Boyer Award.

Save the Date:
The 19th annual Summer Institute will be held at Hamline University on June 17-19, 2015.

Memorable Words from NAC&U Commencement Ceremonies

"Somehow by the grace of God I finally realized what I wanted and need most out of my college years. It can be summarized in one word - community."

-- Clara Jane Hallar, Westminster College Class of 2014

Liberal Education, Soft Skills, and Success

The Huffington Post published a blog written by University of Evansville President Thomas Kazee in which he wrote about how liberal education teaches 'soft skills' necessary for success in career and life. Read the blog post.

Young African Leaders Study Civic Leadership at Wagner

A group of 25 young African leaders from 19 sub-Saharan countries is studying community and nonprofit organizations at Wagner College. The Wagner College cohort is part of President Barack Obama's Washington Fellowship for Young African Leaders, which has placed 500 men and women in programs at 20 colleges and universities across America this summer. Arcadia Class Makes Headlines in Sierra Leone

by Christopher Sarachilli, Arcadia University, '14

In late spring, the Ministry of Youth Affairs in Sierra Leone hosted Arcadia University students in Freetown, the nation's capital, garnering notice in local newspapers such as The Exclusive and The Awareness Times, as well as on the country's national television station. Students traveled to the West African country from May 25 to June 5 as part of Beyond Conflict in Sierra Leone, a Global Field Study course taught by Associate Professor Dr. Jennifer Riggan and Fodeba Daboh '11M, a graduate of Arcadia's International Peace and Conflict Resolution program. NAC&U Campus Trivia: Which northern campus was the first in its state?

Established in 1854, Hamline University is Minnesota's first university, and among the first coeducational universities in the nation.

This statue depicts Bishop Leonidas Lent Hamline, the university's founding benefactor. A bishop of the Methodist Church, Hamline's interest in the frontier led him to give $25,000 toward the building of an institution of higher learning in what was then the Territory of Minnesota. Hamline died without having the chance to visit his namesake university.
